

Book Donation Guidelines

To maximize efficiency in getting books to projects in need we ask that you consider the following questions before donating books to Books for the Border and Beyond projects.

Would I give this book to my child, grandchild, niece, nephew, etc.?

- If material covered in a book is questionable it may be best to donate the book elsewhere.

Is this book in decent condition?

- Remember children are picking these books out at family reading fairs and odds are if it doesn't look pretty it's not going to get picked. (sad, but true)

The following books should be donated to another cause or recycled:

- Text Books
- Encyclopedias
- Books not meant for children

These books have worth and can still be used in a variety of ways. Unfortunately, Books for the Border and Beyond projects do not call for such materials.
